TREE CARE GUIDE

If you are looking to create a garden oasis, Golden Bamboo is a must-have. They grow best when planted in a location that receives partial to full sun exposure. They thrive in humus-rich, well-drained soils. City dwellers can brighten up their yard and create privacy. Golden Bamboo tolerates urban conditions so that it can beautify urban areas. Use them in your landscape as a barrier, for erosion control, as privacy screens, and windbreak. This is a running bamboo. Grow it in tubs for easy containment. In very hot climates, where the temperatures reach over 100 degrees, it is best to plant in fall or spring. In places where the weather is mild, you can plant bamboo any time of the year.
